

... On responsibility ...

Gastropub Soho

is committed to responsibility on all aspects of the industry. This means being transparent and making durable choices both ecologically, socio-culturally and financially.

As much as possible, we favor local producers on ingredients for our food and we are committed in making choices that the ingredients we use are available locally. We call for ecological actions from our drinks' providers as well and when it comes to our drinks selections, we hold local products in high regard.

By expecting these standards, and acting on them too, we wish to demonstrate that we can advance ecologically durable choices which in turn will restrain climate change, for instance.

In addition to acting ecologically, we are open to everything and everyone. We are unequivocally and unquestionably against all kinds of discrimination and our pub is a safe place for everyone. Please visit our establishment without fear of being made to feel unwelcome or unsafe because of your ethnicity, sexual orientation, religion, size, gender expression, immigration status, socio-economic background, mental health or ability. We sincerely hope all our customers, affiliates and friends are with us on this too.

... See you at the pub! ...
